WE DEDICATE

MR. EDMUND J. KING

In 1939 he graduated with academic and extracurricular honors from North Quincy High School. In 1952 he returned to North Quincy High School as a teacher of mathematics and as a coach of underclass basketball. In 1957 with the respect and good will of all he was appointed assistant principal of North Quincy High School. As a student, a teacher, and an administrator he has always exemplified North Quincy High's unique togetherness in his intellectual accomplishments, his extracurricular liveliness, and his gentlemanly fairness.

So to you, Mr. Edmund J. King, we fondly dedicate the Manet of 1959.

It is everywhere! In fact, it is infectious: North's special brand of togetherness. Here it is in the office of the head counselor as Miss Welch and Alan Carlson chat about Babson Institute, Alan's choice of college.

FOREWORD

"We work together." This inspiration is indeed the banner of our successful accomplishments at North Quincy High School. Traditionally, our school spirit is synonymous with a high standard of intellectual cooperation and discipline and of extracurricular zeal and recreation. What makes this synthesis so natural and human is the warmth and ease with which teachers and pupils work together in class and out.

By integrating our seniors with the active life of our school, we feel that we are presenting a memory book not only of cherished reminiscences but also of North Quincy uniqueness. Thus may the Manet of 1959 be to all its readers a symbol of our special North Quincy High School brand of togetherness!

The Principal's Message

John W. Walsh

It is said that "graduation" marks the end of the preliminary phase of our lives. Signifieantly college refers to it as "commeneement"—not the end of the old, but the beginning of the new. So it must always be that the end of one ehapter imperceptibly intertwines with the beginning of the next.

You stand at a great fork in the mainstream of life, where are made binding deeisions that affeet forever your destiny. It is a time of retrospeet; it is a time of foresight. You seek to make a smooth transition between where you have been and where you are going. To have meaning the two must be related.

Many have been together from the first days of school, most for the last six years. Growing out of this is a unique "togetherness" at North. Through the most formative period of your lives you have worked and played together.

And yet, you eannot escape the realization that the whole is a fusion of the parts. As the perfeet harmony of a great symphony is a delieate blending of the tones of eaeh instrument, so are the great aeeomplishments of a group the subtle eompound of the efforts of each individual. As you work in eoncert with others remember that your self-respeet lies in your own eontribution.

North has served you well if you are better for having been here; you have served North well if it is better for your having been here. Each, I hope, has left forever its stamp upon the other.

FOOTBALL

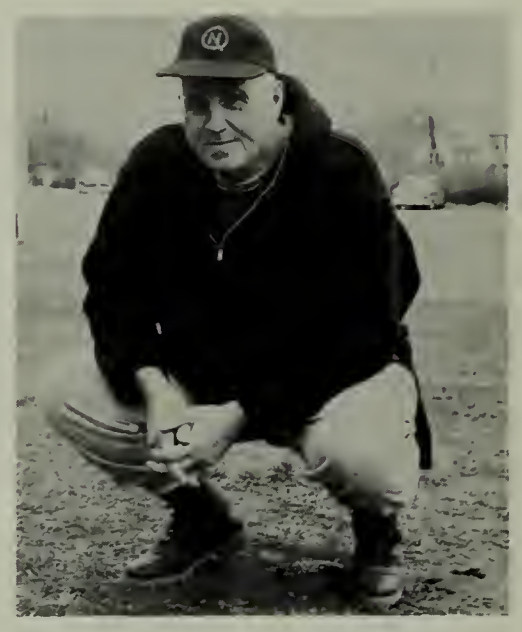
The football team of 1959 was a good one. Its final record was five wins and three losses.

The team was based upon two three-year men, co-captains Tom Kelly and Tom Flanagan. The two veterans were diligent leaders and creditable players. The whole team worked hard throughout the season so that they might win the enthusiastic support of the school, faculty, and pupils. This year's team created some of the old school spirit, for which North Quincy High School is famous.

The season had its ups and downs as far as wins were concerned. Our boys with a case of stage fright went down in defeat to Stoughton. They then went up against Milton. Picked by many to lose the game, North proceeded to annihilate the "Whiz Kids" from Milton. The guardians of North's gridiron then took a disheartening trip to Natick. After losing to Natick, the team traveled to Hingham. Playing on a muddy field, we came through with a slippery victory against the "Harbormen."



Coach Donahue

The Raiders then returned to the comforting walls of their stadium. Meeting up with a fair Cambridge Latin team, the Raiders sent the Intown team back into Boston with a sad expression on their faces. Our team then met what was supposed to be a strong New Bedford team. Considered the underdog by many, North went out and soundly defeated the previously-picked winners. Then lowly Dedham came to pay our team a visit, but found that the Raiders were a very rude and selfish host.

Thanksgiving, so it seems, came too quickly for our team. The Raidders, getting a few bad breaks, went down, defeated but still fighting. The score might have been reversed except for those fumbles. The Sports' Editorial Staff of the Manet congratulates the football team on their winning season.

The scores:

North	14	Stoughton	34
North	28	Milton	8
North	14	Natick	36
North	12	Hingham	6
North	16	Camb. Latin	0
North	44	New Bedford	22

BASKETBALL

Coach Rickson

The basketball team of 1959 was called by some experts a rebuilding year for Coach Rickson. With only two returnees from last year's varsity team, the team went out and battled gamely to win the respect of all. Every game was played with high spirit, good sportsmanship, and great determination.

The team was built around the two returning veterans, Captain Russ Landberg and Paul LaBrecque, along with some of the more experienced J.V.'s from last year. The team opened up its season with Jerry Thornell, center; Rich Holmberg, left forward; Jeff Davison, right forward; Jim Painten, right guard; and Russ Landberg, left guard. They were ably backed up by Fred Bonner, Al Firnrohr, George Tibbets, Frank Gadbois, and others.

The team, probably one of the most unlucky teams ever to come out of this school, had lost, at mid-season, four games, by less than four points in overtime. Although it was on the losing side of the ledger, the team was very colorful and won the praise of opposing teams and coaches.

Anyone who saw our team in action and then saw them go into one of those "all-court presses" or come from behind to tie the score with only seconds remaining got a certain thrill out of supporting such a team.

HOCKEY

Coach Laing

Every year we have had a colorful hockey team. This year's team was the best team that we have had in recent years. Our team of 1959 was ripe for victory. The pucksters playing in the Metropolitan League for the second year had their best chance for the championship. Under Mr. Laing's enthusiastic leadership the team of '59 went out in a winning streak. The boys finally got North Quincy recognized as a Metropolitan League power. The team is built around some returning stars from last year and also some of the J.V.'s who have been promoted to help out.

After playing a great game, but not scoring so well, our team went down in defeat to Quincy in their opening contest. But then with fire in their eyes the following week, they shut out Don Bosco Tech. So with one win under their belts they proceeded to out-hustle, out-skate, and out-score Revere, in what some experts said was the biggest upset in the history of the Met. League.

North	1	Quincy	5

Not only was the team of '59 one of the best ever produced but, "The boys were one of the best group of kids I have ever coached!" exclaimed Mr. L. The Sports Editors of the Manet congratulate the hockey team on their winning season.

Where is it?

There it is.

"Play ball" is the watchword every spring at North Quincy High School. This year is no exception. Coach Hal Forrest and Assistant Coach Ed Phillips have called the candidates together, and have announced daily practice at the Montclair Field.

As we go to press, we think this year's team looks like a winner. Returning veterans Dave Hamilton, Fred Crowther, Chet Forbush, Don Chickering, Dick Scanlin, Bob Lynch, Ron Carney, and Jerry Thornell bring both experience and confidence that should hike North's wins into the majority of the games to be played.

TRACK

In the fall it is Cross Country and this year's team, although young, did a fine job and was a credit to Coach Meaney. Led by juniors Clark Maloof, Gordon Rollins, and Al Walker, the team had a good record for such an inexperienced squad.

In the winter it is Winter Track. Guided by Coach Gentry, the board men got off to a fine start taking Weymouth for the first time in over seven years. Their pace slowed, but they still look forward to the State Meet although they are in a higher class now, and will face stiffer competition. Leading scorers are seniors Al Rutan, Ron Zoia, Ed Gherardi, Bob Travers, and Bob Strout.

Finally, in the spring comes Spring Track. As we go to press, this year's group hopes to come out strong and looks forward to its meets, the Belmont Relays and the State Meet. Under the excellent tutelage of Cross-Country Coach Meaney, we know they will do a fine job.

GOLF

As we go to press, this year's golf team looks forward to another successful season. Guided by veteran football coach Jack Donahue, the experienced Raiders eagerly await the start of the season. Although they don't have much chance to practice, the team expect to be ready for their early matches. And their schedule is a busy one, for matches have already been arranged with Brockton, Sharon, Dedham, Norwood, and arch-rival Quincy. The greater part of the scoring will be done by returning golfers Eugene O'Keefe, George Duncan, David Hooley, Richard Disnard, and David McConville. The team has experience and depth; with a little luck it can be one of the best North has ever produced.

TENNIS

Coach Sinclair shows form

Though small, the tennis teams of North Quincy High School have done credit to the school and to their coach, Mr. Roy Sinclair. North has produced some of the most successful teams in the state, and this year's team looks like no exception. Though there is not one returning player, we have confidence in Coach Sinclair's proved ability to mold a winning team out of seemingly nothing. With extensive training, strengthening the forward and backhand strokes, practicing for both singles and doubles matches, Coach Sinclair hopes to build a powerful team, which, as we go to press, we predict will win in true North tradition.

GIRLS' BOWLING

Top scorers

"Strike!" That's the call of the North Quincy High Girls' Bowling Club. Under the direction of Miss McCoy, each girl reaches her goal, sportswomanship, every Monday afternoon at the Norfolk Downs Bowling Alleys. Each bowler is also seeking another goal, the highest score of the week. At the end of each year, the high scorers compete in the finals to determine who is the best bowler. At the present time the high scorers are Bev Finn, Lee Brownell, and Virginia Lagh. Possibly there will be more by the time this year's club ends. At this time there will be a Bowling Club banquet honoring the winners and the officers of the club—President-Ellen Joyce; Vice President-Janet Hogan; Secretary-Marjorie Richards; Treasurer-Joanne Huber.

VARSITY CLUB

The mighty men of athletics are banded together for the second consecutive year in the Varsity Club with Robert Laing, hockey coach, for their faculty adviser. The crystal ball of this club uncovers the reality that besides rigorous training and year-round athletic competition in stiff schedules, the boys are no fumblers when they plan social activities. In September their autumn get-acquainted dance was a socially-warming aperitif that whetted a "sold-out" attendance at their semi-formal in December.

Then, too, the germ of school-spirit ideas is often formed at executive board meetings with such tangible results this year as the birth of the Booster Club, a combined parent and community organization to give renewed impetus to school athletics.

The last course of the busy year was a banquet for the elite of the athletic world. What a fitting cordial!

STUDENT LEADERS

Delighting the spectators at the home basketball games again this year are the red-legged acrobats, North's Girl Student Leaders. Were you to steal a glance into the gym during homeroom period on Friday you would be much relieved to see that they once again assume their normal skin color and wear blue gym suits. Here they back-bend, head-stand, hand-stand, and writhe into all sorts of contorted positions.

Student Leaders also learn teamwork, for if one brick in the pyramid is weak, the entire structure will topple whether upon the sands of the desert or upon the wood floor of our gymnasium. The black-and-red-attired girls also develop the ability to lead by assisting their adviser, Miss McCoy, in her physical education classes.

Let us hope that the supply of female gymnasts is never cut off from North Quincy High School, for our Student Leaders are certainly a top-performing part of our student body.

BOYS' STUDENT

Mr. Rickson's student leaders have tumbled into another energetic year. And if you insist that seeing is believing we invite you to join us at a fast-paced practice session in room 111 during any homeroom period. We wager that, along with us, you will sweat the sweat of nervous prostration, that you will want to scream at the muscle-twisting, death-defying feats of bodies hurling themselves through space in a series of back flips, parallel-bar contortions, and abstruse mat work. But the secret ingredient of the nary a fumble in flawless execution is the perfection of balance and coordination that Mr. Rickson so effortlessly instills into his leaders.

Indeed, if real he men live dangerously, these are the he men of North Quincy High School.

GIRLS' SPORTS

If you think that Basketball is strictly a boys' sport, you should see North's own girls play. Talent for the hoops comes naturally to these champs of the backboards. Although the scores are not often very impressive, you can bet that genuine spirit and enthusiasm are the elements that really make these gals click. The desire for winning is always present, but our champs find that losing can be fun too, and they take defeat as real troopers. Fair play and sportswomanship always shine through.

The sincere efforts of Miss McCoy help to keep the ball rolling and competitive spirit alive. Much credit is due to the girls who participate and make this sport so popular. If such interest continues as it has in the past, Girls' Basketball will remain one of North's most popular and respected intramural sports.

"Esprit de corps"—North's cheerleaders have it! Let tedious hours of hoarse-producing practice, aching muscles, cutting wind in their faces, gravelly dirt on their knees, all go hang. These girls hurdle the obstacle course of the back-of-the-scenes insurmountables, and with a nice balance of professional skill and teen-age charm arouse packed grandstands to yell their heads off in support of our teams:

"Hit 'em high; hit 'em low;
Come on North, let's go.

DRUM

Those girls in the colorful red and black uniforms marching down the field in perfect time with the music are North's own troupe of majorettes. These girls have added color and increased the school spirit at the football rallies and games.

Such precision artists as these must not only master the most difficult twirls, but also acquire grace, poise, and coordination. With the assistance of Miss Gray, their adviser, and the leadership of Sue Kelly, head majorette, the girls put in long hours of practice. They are rewarded, however, when they hear the cheers they receive as they march upon the football field to perform their intricate routines at each game.

GIRLS' GLEE CLUB

Singing Intruders

If you have ever heard a cage of canaries singing, then you will recognize the sound of our Girls' Glee Club. Each sophomore and junior girl who is a member of this club is a canary in her own right. But put them all together in one cage, room 402, and give them an expert director, Mrs. Newman, and you will have as fine a group of singers as there has ever been at North Quincy High.

MIXED GLEE CLUB

Thank goodness we do not have to lament: "The minstrel boy to war has gone." Instead we have right in the lap of North Quincy High School the music makers of both sexes who as our Mixed Glee Club under the direction of Mrs. Ethel Newman make by their repertory, the more melodious our Christmas and Easter assemblies and our student musical get-togethers. In the District Concert and the city-wide Spring Concert they spread North's beautiful melody far beyond the school itself.

BAND

Gounod knew the emotional rat-a-ta-tan of martial music and so he gave us The Soldier's Chorus; Verdi knew the splendor of victory and so he gave us The Triumphal March. And North Quincy High's musical department knows the color and lively musicianship of assembled instruments on the playing fields, in the assembly hall, and in the musicroom concerts, and so it has given us North's Band, the performing boys in red and black.

I am sure all of us will thrill throughout life (in memory of course) to the bursting of the rafters at our rallies as the band exulted in the traditional fight song:

"On, North Quincy; On, North Quincy,
Fight right through that line!"

With uniform nattiness, marching precision, and musical performance, the boys took their place with the best in the city's Veterans' Day parade, the merchants' Christmas parade, and the traditional Memorial Day parade. Whether performing at school affairs or in civic demonstrations, our band is worthy of its inspirational director Mr. Anthony Ferranti. Vive the Band!

Prexie Alan Rutan

Steering our ship of state, the U.S.S. North Quincy, this year was Captain Al with Judy second in command. Our Purser, Bernie, certainly did a commendable job keeping our money from the pirates. With Nina keeping our log up to date and corresponding to foreign ports before our arrival, the ship was in calm waters, sailing smoothly all the way. Under their direction the dance committees, prom committee, and class day committee found their tasks easier to perform. Our first dance on board was most successful, bringing out almost every passenger from his cabin. Meetings were almost always in session in cabin 325, that of the manager of the line, Mr. Donahue; how often could we see the captain and his crew under the light of the rising moon strolling back along the deck to their respective cabins from a long meeting. Although we shall never make such a pleasant voyage, nor one under the competent leadership of our four officers, no matter to which port we may wander we shall never forget the U.S.S. North Quincy nor Alan, Judy, Bernie and Nina.

JUNIOR CLASS OFFICERS

Trumping this year's junior pack have been Spade Densmore, Diamond Kelly, Club Cooke, and Heart Greenlaw. Playing their cards so well, they have directed the successful junior class activities laying down tricks for their senior year; there never has been observed such an active game as this and never quite so many jokers. Did anyone ever discover which card shark made the myriads of posters announcing the various activities? Although this game is over and the pot has been distributed, plans are already being made for a new one next September. May the players again choose such a winning hand.

STUDENT COUNCIL

Around the tables in our cafeteria, Tom Young and his group gather periodically for meetings of the North Quincy High School Student Council. Representatives of our four classes join prexy Young, veep Flanagan, secretary Gibson, and treasurer Landberg to solve challenges that such a large school creates. This group has been responsible for presenting many programs of entertainment and education.

This year the council has initiated the dress codes, both for school and for school dances, in addition to sponsoring lighted holiday decorations of the school at Christmas. Groups were also selected to attend meetings at neighboring schools to see what was being done elsewhere. This organization also signed a contract with the Motion Picture Operators' Club and between the two we were shown several educational and entertaining films.

Without this group, where would we be? We owe them a great deal and they may be assured that we are extremely grateful.

DANCE COMMITTEE

Heap-Big Chief Alan ~~pontificates~~ fornicates!

September was the beginning of months of hard work for a group of behind-the-scenes slaves, the Prom Committee. Under Tom Flanagan's cracking whip, all backs bent to the task: staging the most alluring and scintillating prom in school history. On May 29, their year's work was completed. Our prom, with its beautiful setting at the Blue Hills Country Club, its delicious dinner at Hugo's-Kimball's, and its carefully-kept favors, gave us all memories to be treasured forever. We can thank this hard-working committee for removing all the necessary worries and allowing us to reap the full "dream-come-true" experience of the Prom of '59.

A second group of slaves went to work in early September, our Dance Committee. With overseers Linda Smith, Alan Carlson, and Bonnie Jaeger always at their backs, the three committees, without time for a breather, made highly-rated additions to our social season: dances expertly organized from disc jockey to decorations, from bizarre and intriguing names to posters to match, and, most important of all, from affairs of top-notch fun to profits that gave the class treasury quite a lift.

CLASS DAY COMMITTEE

The Class Day Committee was faced with an awesome task: to bring us in stages from the screaming and giggling terrors of our teachers' nightmares to the mature young men and women of their fondest dreams. On the morning of June 4, we set out on the first stage. Complete with pigtail, lollipops, baseball bats, and crazy hats, we carried on long-suppressed antics.

In the afternoon we advanced to the second stage. Here we reminisced, as only adolescents can, over our Yearbcoks during the Yearbook-giving ritual.

In the evening, the metamorphosis was complete. As we combed out pigtails and washed off greasepaint, we were made over from the inside out so that when we attended the class banquet and dance, we gave reassurance to all that we were ready to stay grown-up.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

At North they come by the half dozen.

The blueprint to success in leadership, scholarship, character, and service is to be found in North's Honor Society. To the extent that a good way of life in high school has earned membership in this society so, in turn, does membership in the society predict a good way of life in the post-high-school world. To prove the pin of membership is justified and the potential of future dedication to the challenges of life is strengthened, the society has maintained a year-long, all-inclusive program with Ronald Kalil, president; Janet Lavery, vice-president; Harriet Greenberg, secretary; and Judith Lindahl, treasurer, and Misses Louise Fifield and Marie Youngerman, advisers.

GIRLS' CLUB

Girls' Club Executive Board

Tireless workers on project #1682

Some of our most precious belongings are our traditions. We are sure that the senior girls at North feel just that way about the Girls' Club, for it was established by the girls of the first graduating class as an outlet for social and charitable activities. Right up to today it has continued with never a lapse.

The girls of '59 are making their contribution to this tradition both purposeful and lusterworthy. The club's two annual record hops were top-shelf socials. The traditional Thanksgiving food collection brought Quincy's needy families closer to an old-fashioned holiday dinner. The Christmas doll project helped to fill the stockings of needy children who otherwise might not have had a visit from Santa. The Valentine's semi-formal "Chanson d'Amour" is lingering with all the romance of un bateau -mouche excursion on the star-reflected Seine. The spring musical was a gift, indeed, to the whole class of '59 with part of the proceeds helping to defray the Yearbook costs.

The Mothers' Tea in May culminated most appropriately a satisfying year for the officers: Marie Prizzio, Donna Morrissey, Marjorie Richards, and Janet Hogan: for the advisers: Mrs. Eileen Feeney and Miss Ann Kennedy; and for the executive board.

LIBRARY STAFF

Behind the curtain of silence which usually prevails in the library you will find North's Library Staff members working feverishly doing the behind-the-scenes tasks which keep our library in such neat order. These stagehands can be found checking books in or out, digging out back issues of magazines, or painting the props which decorate the Staff bulletin boards. These girls work during study periods decoding names scribbled on cast sheets and trying to track down missing copies of needed scripts.

If it were not for these industrious back-stage workers, the smooth, daily performance of our library would never be the hit that it is and-we are going out on a limb —always will be.

RECEPTIONISTS

NORTH STAR

If a school pulsates with academic and extracurricular living as does North Quincy High, it is just the meat for news-nose hounds. Is it any wonder, then, that the North Star is a full-sized and frequently-published newspaper?

Virginia Guptill, editor-in-chief, drives relentlessly and demands such a concentration of human interest that all waking hours are the reporters' working hours. Business manager, Judy Lindahl, keeps her Advertising Staff members hopping to solicit endless ads so that the financial ledger of this publishing business isn't too tight a squeeze.

One most often finds Linda Hardy, production editor, in conference with her bosses, Ginny and Mr. Murphy, as to the artistic design of the paper and its readying for the deadline. Ray Evans, activities' editor, and Russ Landberg, sports' editor, keep busy by sniffing around for "the latest" to fill their repective columns.

In sum, these editors and their staffs have given us this year a newspaper in the best journalistic traditions.

What a scoop!

MANET

Faculty adviser John Hofferty

A beam of light fell across the dark corridor of the deserted North Quincy High School. It streaked out of the door of room 405 where the editors of the '59 Manet were just pools of mental sweat. The six drawers of the file were pulled open; Yearbooks of past classes were dog-eared from scrutiny; dummy sheets, rulers, stickers, and all the accessory paraphernalia were inches deep at every work desk. The book-keeping ledgers were being checked and rechecked.

That afternoon the usual sounds had issued from the doors of 405. "I hate people who sit around like dead wood. You know there is a deadline to be met and I refuse to be a committee of one to do all the work. Now get busy!" To those of us who literally live in that room, this ultimatum was nothing new. Mr. Hofferty-what would we do without him!-had commanded and so we obeyed.

Joanna proofread the work of the editorial staff, put the write-ups in readable order, and tried to decide what work would go to which typist the following morning. Meanwhile, George and Jerry were occupied cropping and measuring pictures to make sure they would fit the right space, reading Mr. H's criticisms, and attending to the mistakes the senior proofreader found. While all this intense routine was going on, Alan and Bill were adding long columns of figures to decide whether or not we'd be able to pay for the Manet and how much more money we'd have to squeeze out of the book's purchasers to keep out of debtors' prison.

Don't think this was an isolated afternoon. This was, in reality, every afternoon during the long months before the Manet went to press. Each of the editors did his own job, but we also joined forces to help one another. "We work together" is the theme of the book and the motto of the staff. If we didn't work together, we would never publish any semblance of a good Yearbook and this year's book, we hope, is good.

Jerry says, "This is the way it's done."

SKETCH CLUB

No temperament in these artists

When venturing into 329 we may expect to meet a group of off-beat bohemians with various kinds of complexes. Happily this apprehension is quickly dispelled as we meet a group of normal, popular seniors who are putting their talents to constructive use. The Sketch Club is a real service organization, which is willing and able to help other groups. The beautiful mural at the Varsity Club semi-formal was the result of many pains-taking hours of work, as were the decorations for the Christmas and Easter assemblies. Every time we have a fire drill we should recall the Sketch Club who made the neat emergency signs which have been placed in each room. Indeed, we should all be thankful that North has so much talent to put to work.

ATOMIC ENERGY CLUB

When we at North are asked what is being done in this post-Sputnik era to enlighten students, we can proudly point to our Atomic Energy Club. Every Monday night, North's future nuclear wizards meet under the auspicis of Mr. Rubin in 430. There they explore such pertinent subjects as isotopes, fall out, and radioactivity in general, and hear lectures on atomic energy. By participating in A.E.C. they express their interest in their future, and the future of their country, a form of dedication to be admired and imitated.

BIOLOGY CLUB

Intently awaiting the result

The Biology Club, under the stimulating guidance of Miss Schields, pursues that branch of knowledge which, when simply stated, treats of living organisms. And speaking of pursuit, room 424 on Tuesday afternoon occasionally emits combined squeals of laughter and apprehension as an attempt is made to recapture an errant laboratory mouse. At other times this group may be intently studying the metabolism of a cell, or the nesting traits of the Bower Bird.

All of this, when highlighted with occasional field trips and guest lectures, augurs well for the future in science of this dedicated group.

Under the guidance of Miss Horrigan, and her four able officers, Herb Thomas, Steve Grant, Judy Beck, and Edie Gladwin, the Math Club carries on an investigation in the world of advanced mathematics.

Every other Thursday in 423 this group can be seen intently at work studying the latest math books, concentrating on problems which are beyond the scope of ordinary class work, and exchanging information and experiences which involve mathematics in today's world.

Who knows? Maybe someday one or more members of this group may aid man's advance into the far-flung reaches of outer space.

TEACHERS' CAREER CLUB

Believing in the adage—"Teachers are born, not made"—Martin Casey, the sponsor of the Teachers' Career Club, welcomes as volunteer members of his club only those juniors and seniors who sense their dedication. Here they are exposed to both an articulate balance between theory and practice and an introduction to the social amenities of the profession.

Panel discussions by the members sagely moderated by Mr. Casey evaluate the mental-discipline approach to intellectual achievement, the emotional-needs approach to individual differences, and academic and extracurricular relationships between the teacher and the pupil.

Down-to-earth professional talks by specialists give an authoritative scope to vital problems and decisions. Both John Walsh, our principal, and Miss Loretta McHugh, elementary consultant, have been most generous with their time and helpful with their encouragement.

To help open the door to a nursing career has always been the goal of the Nurses' Career Club, but this year the group is opening the door wide for one of its members by awarding a scholarship to a deserving girl in the club for any nursing school of her choice. This is truly another first for our class of '59! To the girls and Miss Alice Gray, sponser, we say, "Thank you for helping to make us a class to be remembered."

RIFLE CLUB

Beryl eyes the birdie

Every Wednesday night strange sounds can be heard coming from the Squantum School. A little questioning reveals that these sounds are coming from weapons of the sharpshooters of North's Rifle Club. Further interrogation shows us that this is one of the most popular activities of the school. Perhaps the nature of these meetings in part accounts for the club's popularity. Here the guys and gals learn the basic techniques of marksmanship, shoot 22's, and then compare targets.

The goal of all faithful North sharpshooters is a place on the Rifle Team. The best of the club members get to compete with teams from other schools and of course always try to come out on top.

M.P.O.C.

Paul shows how!

North Quincy High's M.G.M. lot with its many and various whirring cameras and miles of projection film is located in the Motion Picture Operators' laboratory. Here Director Robert Gentry peps up his boys with the scoop on all facets of Visual Education. From such training emerges a corps of specialists who not only book films for subject enrichment in the classrooms but also set up and operate the moving picture machines at the convenience of the teachers concerned.

These same specialists run the projection booth in the auditorium with the aplomb of movie magnates. Although all of the boys give freely of their spare time for the interests of North, both Bill Bradford and Richard Ohrenberger hover with the tenacity of guardian angels over the fortunes of the club so intimately are they associated with its every project.

TRI-HI-Y

To be able to combine sociability and a seriously inspirational aim takes some doing. But the junior and senior girls in Tri-Hi-Y do so very naturally.

Every Monday evening they meet at the Quincy Y.M.C.A. where after devotions by Chaplain Nina Sacco, President Linda Hardy conducts their business meeting. At this time the girls have lived up to their aim: to create, maintain, and extend high standards of Christian character, as can be evidenced from such projects as a car wash to help build up the treasury, a hay ride for a social interlude, the donation of a Thanksgiving basket to a needy family, a jewelery party to boost the club's funds, and many other social and charitable activities; all of which originated at meetings.

With the work of their meeting out of the way, the girls never tire of discovering that quite coincidentally the Hi-Y never fails to have a Monday night meeting in an adjoining room. Of course "iron bars do not a prison make;" so the rest of the evening, sociability is the bill of fare.

HI-Y

"To create, maintain, and extend throughout the home, church, and community, high standards of Christian character" is the purpose of the Hi-Y. This group is made up of the male part of the Y.M.C.A.'s Tri-Hi-Y. Every Monday night the bounce of the ping pong balls and the swish of the shuffle board proclaim the vitality of our Hi-Y Club.

These typical American boys, so you see, are united both to help, in whatever way youth can, the welfare of Quiney and to enjoy the gamut of the Y's recrcational facilities.

With meetings starting promptly anytime between 7 and 7:30, or whenever Al got tired of playing shuffle board, the boys did—mirabile dictu—get to the roots of business with breakneek speed, and inaugurated help to the needy at holiday times and assisted Tri projects whenever they could.

HERE WE GROW AGAIN!
WHERE THOUSANDS SAVE HUNDREDS

To be editor-in chief of the MANET is a year-long thrill: challenges, write-ups, photographs, appointments, deadlines—all to be met in such a way that the Yearbook will be just what I know all of you will treasure: your own memory book of busy, achieving, happy days at North.

And then the togetherness, the unasked-for, but constantly valuable, cooperation of our adviser Mr. John Hofferty, of George, Jerry, Alan, and Bill, my editors, of all the members of all the staffs, of our official photographer Mr. James Bleiler, of our publisher Mr. Roswell Farnham, and of our financial backers, our patrons and our advertisers—how wonderful all of these people have made me feel even under inescapable pressures!

I hope, more than anything else, that every time you browse through your Yearbook you will feel just as wonderful with the results of all of these persons as I do.

Joanna Little

Thank you, financial backers, for your spirit of togetherness.

For Quincy youth . . . career opportunities with a company that serves all America

Boston Gear transmission products are sold and used "wherever wheels turn" throughout the United States and Canada. To serve this far-reaching market, the company's operations extend from coast to coast, requiring a large staff of qualified employees.

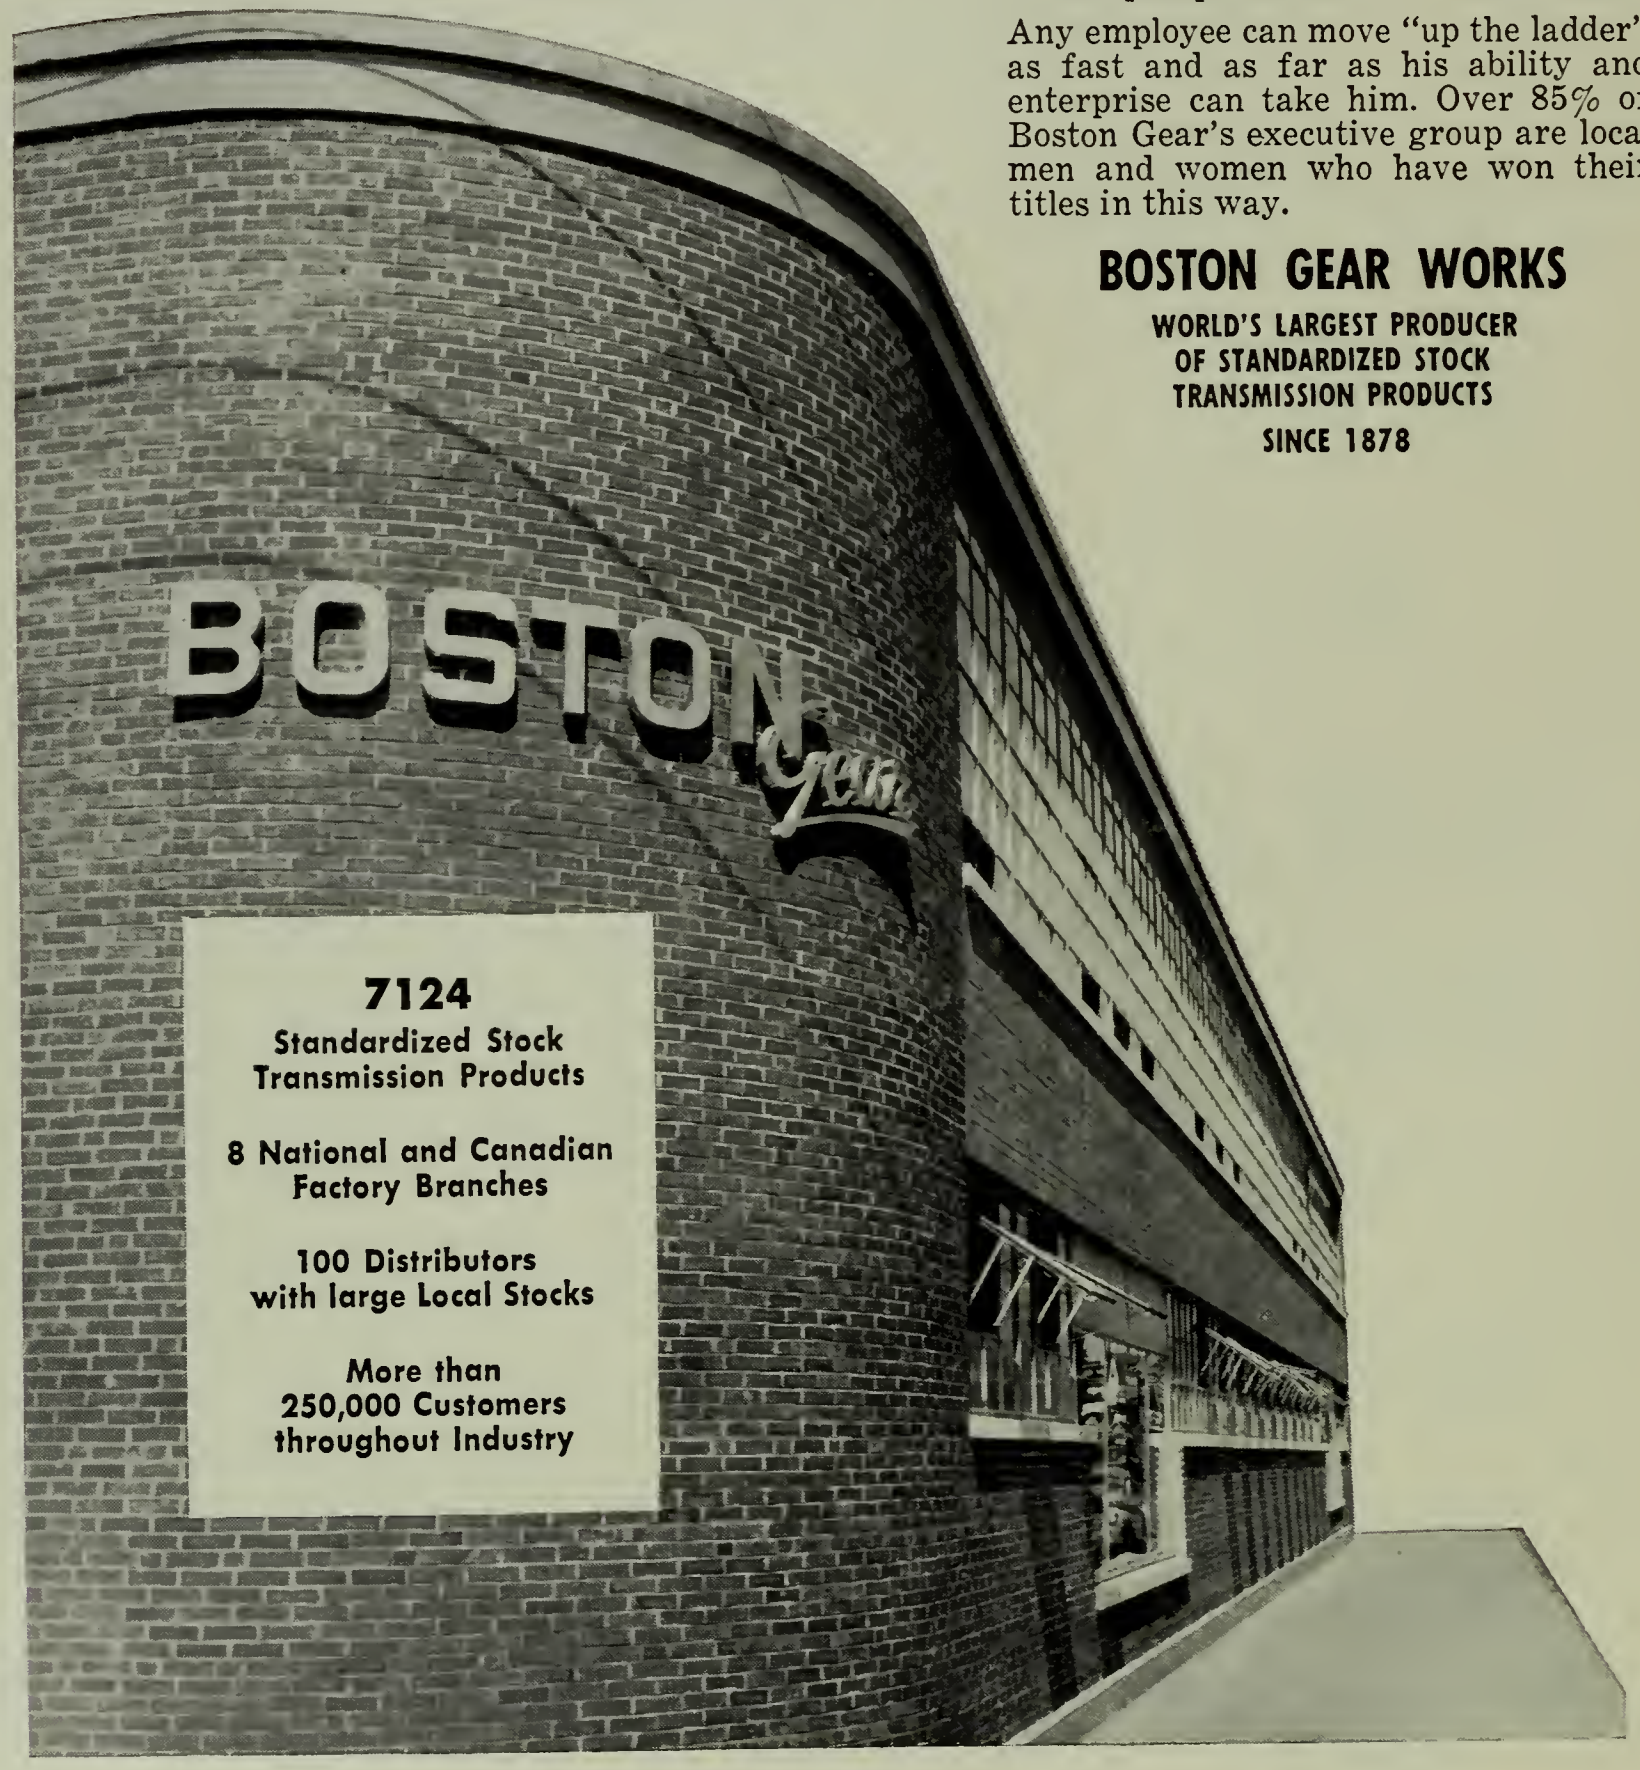
For Quincy youth, this offers the advantage of home-town employment with future prospects that are unrestricted.

Any employee can move "up the ladder" as fast and as far as his ability and enterprise can take him. Over 85% of Boston Gear's executive group are local men and women who have won their titles in this way.

BOSTON GEAR WORKS

WORLD'S LARGEST PRODUCER OF STANDARDIZED STOCK TRANSMISSION PRODUCTS

SINCE 1878



This book printed by VELVATONE, a special process of lithographic printing. Sole producers: Wm. J. Keller Inc., Buffalo, N. Y. No other printing firm is authorized to use the Velvatone method.

Best of Luck in
